CENSUS OF THE COMMONWEALTH, 30TH JUNE, 1954.

NO. 46 : NUMBER OF ROOMS AND NUMBER OF INMATES IN OCCUPIED
PRIVATE DWELLINGS : AUSTRALIA.

This statement shows the numbers of occupied private houses and flats and total private dwellings in each State and Territory of Australia, according to the number of rooms and number of inmates, at the Census of 30th June, 1954. A table showing the average number of rooms, average number of inmates and average number of inmates per room for both private houses and flats is also included. The following Dwelling Summaries for each State and the whole of Australia have already been issued:- No.31, Classes of Occupied Dwellings, No.33, Nature of Occupancy of Occupied Private Dwellings, and No.36, Material of Outer Walls of Occupied Private Dwellings.

For the purpose of the Census, a "dwelling" is any habitation occupied by a household group living together as a domestic unit, whether comprising the whole or only part of a building. "Private dwellings" comprise mainly private houses (including sheds, outhouses, garages, etc. used for dwelling purposes), shares of private houses, flats, and rooms, apartments, etc. A "flat" is part of a house or other building which can be completely closed off and which includes both cooking and bathing facilities.

All figures shown herein are exclusive of full-blood aboriginals and dwellings occupied solely by them.

(a) Includes kitchen and permanently enclosed sleep-out, but does not include bathroom, pantry, laundry or storehouse unless generally used for sleeping.

(b) Includes houses, sheds, huts, etc. and shared private houses for which only one Householder's Schedule was received.

(c) In addition to private houses and flats, includes shares of private houses, and rooms apartments, etc.

Occupied private houses throughout Australia with four, five or six rooms numbered 1,606,602 at 30th June, 1954, representing 78.1 per cent. of the total. Four-roomed houses constituted 18.5 per cent.; 5-roomed houses (which predominated in all States except Queensland, where 6-roomed houses were most numerous), 33.6 per cent.; 6-roomed houses, 26.0 per cent.; and 7-roomed houses 8.8 per cent.

The greatest numerical increases since 1947 in occupied private houses were in respect of 6-roomed private houses which increased by 150,634 or 39.2 per cent., and 5-roomed private houses, which increased by 149,540 or 27.6 per cent. Seven, eight and nine-roomed houses showed the greatest proportional increases, however, their numbers being about 48 per cent. greater than in 1947. One-room private houses decreased by 6,457 or 1.2 per cent.

In flats, those with four rooms predominated in all States, and constituted 3.9 per cent. of the total for Australia. Five-roomed flats were next with 21.7 per cent., and then 3-room flats with 21.4 per cent.

Four-roomed flats showed the greatest numerical increase since 1947 (6,118 or 1.1 per cent.), followed by 5-roomed flats (4,012 or 16.9 per cent.), but the greatest proportional increases were amongst flats with more than five rooms.

Includes houses, sheds, huts, etc. and shared private houses for which only one Householder's Schedule was received.

In addition to houses and flats, includes shares of private houses, and rooms, apartments, etc.

Houses with four inmates constituted the largest group for Australia as a whole (21.7 per cent.), but in three of the States, Victoria, Queensland and South Australia, houses with two inmates were most numerous. The next largest group for Australia as a whole was the two-inmate group (21.6 per cent.), followed by the three-inmate group (21.2 per cent.). These three groups constituted 64.5 per cent. of the total number of occupied houses in Australia. Although the numerical order of these groups varied from State to State, the differences between the groups were small. Flats with two inmates predominated in all States and Territories, constituting 38.7 per cent. of the total occupied flats in Australia.

For all occupied private dwellings, those with two inmates predominated, having increased by 43.5 per cent. (165,559 dwellings) since 1947, and displaced dwellings with three inmates from first position. This group showed the largest numerical and proportional increases of any group over 1947 figures. All other groups up to and including dwellings with six inmates showed substantial increases, but dwellings with 7 or more inmates decreased.

At 30th June, 1954, there were 2,042,618 occupied private dwellings with five inmates or less (87.2 per cent. of the total) compared with 1,575,473 such dwellings (84.1 per cent.) in 1947.
